

CASE STUDY

Name: Sue Reber State: Utah

Do you currently use Color Code as a teaching tool in your classroom?

Yes

In what subject do you use Color Code?

9th grade Teen Living

Why did you choose Color Code as a teaching tool?

The Color Code helps students to quickly see that we have differences, different motivations, different strengths, different limitations and that it is okay to be different.

How easily do your students grasp the concept of Color Code and its application?

I believe that they grasp it quite well.

What benefits have your student's derived from using the Color Code in real-life applications?

I see them talking to each other about what their color is and saying—"that sounds just like me." When they internalize the concepts they have tools to better understand their own actions and the actions of others.

How important is it that students understand what drives their personalities?

I teach junior high students. This is a time of life that teens are trying to figure out who they are. Color Code is one more way to help them figure out themselves.

Color Code also helps them figure out dynamics of friend relationships... that are so important to junior high students.

How does Color Code help students make critical life decisions?

I watched my own daughter as a teen look at the qualities of a red personality. She didn't like the limitations of the red personality and has worked on being more conscious of people's feelings. Now twenty years later, she is a very healthy red personality that gets lots accomplished and is also a loving, caring wife and mother of three.

The Color Code has made a lasting impact on her life.

Comments:

As a teacher you don't always know the impact one lesson can have on a student. Seeing the impact the Color Code had on my daughter (and the rest of my family) I choose to teach the concepts to my students.

COLORCODE
Personality science.

145 W. Crystal Ave | Salt Lake City, UT 84115
www.colorcode.com | 866-4MOTIVE

CASE STUDY

Name: LaDonna Edwards

State: Tennessee

Do you currently use Color Code as a teaching tool in your classroom?

Yes, I have each student that enters my classroom take the Color Code assessment. We then discuss what the color means.

In what subject do you use Color Code?

I teach in an alternative school so I use the Color Code as a life skill subject. I am able to use aspects of the Color Code daily.

Why did you choose Color Code as a teaching tool?

I became interested in the Color Code years ago and I feel that it is a great program. I think it is easy for the students to understand.

How easily do your students grasp the concept of Color Code and its application?

I believe it is very easy for my students to understand and I feel that they can apply it easily in their home and school lives.

What benefits have your student's derived from using the Color Code in real-life applications?

The majority of my students in the alternative setting are Red and Yellow. It helps when they understand that they are that way but it doesn't have to be a bad thing. They feel everything about them is bad. It is good to show them the good points of the color and how they possess those qualities even if they don't use them.

How important is it that students understand what drives their personalities?

I believe it helps the students in my classroom especially. Since students in my class are in there because they are in 'trouble' it is good to show them that the color may drive them but it can drive them to do good and not always just the trouble areas.

How does Color Code help students make critical life decisions?

I think this is the part that I haven't gotten to deal with as much. I can prepare them with the Color Code but they don't always stay in my class long term so I can't know how it helps them in life decisions. I have had a few that will come back and share with me positive results.

Comments

I love the program. I believe in the Color Code. Thanks for allowing me to be a part of this study and for supporting this program.

